AQUEDUCT FAVORITES WIN.

FOUR OUT OF SIX SCORE FOR THEIR OWNERS AND BACKERS.

Sewell Takes the Glen Cove Stakes in a Canter—Jack Atkin Defeats Spooner—Hessian Wins Again.

New York, November 8.—The Glen Cove Selling Stakes was reduced to three starters before post time today and it was won very easily by Sewell, always an odds-on favorite in the betting.

The tabulated history of the Glen Cove Stakes is as follows:

Year.	Winner.	Wt.	Jockey.	Val.	Time.
1905	Banker	101	B. Smith	$ 990	1:49
1906	Athlete	106	W. Miller	985	1:47
1907	Sewell	105	E. Dugan	940	1:42

Run at 1 1-16 miles in 1905 and 1906. Four of the favorites were first home and it was a good day for the backers. The only non-winning favorites were in the first race when Hessian, at 8 to 1, nosed out Miss Sain after the filly had led from the start, and in the fifth race when Sandal, a filly from the stable of James R. Keene, scored. Sandal was the second choice in the betting and had a liberal following.

The going was still slow from the recent rains, but the weather was mild and pleasant. Miss Sain was one of the best backed horses of the afternoon and was supported with rare confidence. As a matter of fact, had she finished in front, it is probable that she would have been set back, for all through the stretch she bumped and crowded Hessian, the winner, and had him on the extreme outside at the finish.

Jack Atkin won the all aged handicap rather easily, but had Miller used better judgment in his riding of the two-year-old, Spooner, his victory would not have been so easy. Miller made much use of Spooner in the early running and when the final duel came in the stretch, he lacked his usual energy. He rode another very bad race when he was beaten on Carrollton in the opening dash. When the start came he was in a measure caught napping and, as a result, was out off and had to take his mount up before the horses had gone a dozen strides.

The Metropolitan Turf Association had a meeting last night and the seat of George Boles was taken up by the executive committee, which is made up of Eddie Burke, Isaac Hakleberg, John Evans and Charles Henry. Boles, having been requested to stop booking by the Jockey Club, thus became unacceptable as a member of the "Mets." It was intimated to him that he had better resign and sell his membership button. Boles objected to this, and put up an argument that he was not at fault in any way, but the committee decided that he could not longer remain a member. Boles sold his membership button to a man named Burke for $2,500, it was said. Boles was at the track today, betting on the outside heavily and losing. The reason for the retirement of Boles given today was that he had had a number of partners in bookmaking, and that these men had complained of the treatment they had received in the settlements of the business. It was also said there was no question of the connection between Boles and some trainers who were not right, and that these trainers would find some trouble next year in getting licenses. Boles denied everything and says that he is quitting for private reasons.

BLUE GRASS TURF GOSSIP.

Lexington, Ky., November 8.—Schoolmate, the six-year-old bay gelding by Wadsworth—Margaret Jane, in the stable of Oots Brothers, was destroyed today at the Kentucky Association course.

L. Blum, of Mexico, arrived here today. He will buy heavily for export at the coming Fasig-Tipton sale.

Edward Corrigan today sold the mares Dollie H. and Breach to Howard Oots.

Dr. Keough says the Yankee—Trillette colt in the stable of L. A. Cella at Douglas Park is a real race horse. He broke behind ten others a day or two ago and beat them a quarter in 23½. Ed Stubbs is training the Cella yearlings.

J. S. Stoll is in poor health, to which fact the sale of the Meadows Stud, which is to be dispersed Thanksgiving week, is due.

PERTH LEADS FRENCH SIRE.

Perth heads the list of winning stallions in France, his get having won upward of $110,000. The great Flying Fox is fifth on the list, while his owner, M. Edmond Blanc, has not been the dominant factor in French racing that he was in the earlier days of Flying Fox's stud career.

GOING INTO WINTER RETIREMENT.

Lexington, Ky., November 8.—W. W. Darden's stallion, Ivan the Terrible, and the yearling full brother to Lad of Langden, were brought here last night from Woodburn Farm and will be shipped tomorrow morning to Mr. Darden's farm at Gallatin, Tenn.

HAYES SELLS COLONEL BOB.

T. P. Hayes has sold his Cesarion colt, Colonel Bob, to Ed Alvey at private sale. Colonel Bob will be shipped to Arcadia with the rest of the stable by his new owner.

FEATURES OF AQUEDUCT'S RACING.

Advantages of Its Long Homestretch—Club-house Commissioners and Their Foes.

New York, November 5.—There is one draw-back to the new Aqueduct race course, for new it practically is, there is so little room for ladies in the clubhouse end of the stand. There are few boxes, but as a rule they are taken by the same party of men day after day. To be sure, there are not many women visitors to the track just now, but if there were, most of them would be compelled to sit with the majority of the crowd in the grand-stand. What is needed at Aqueduct is an upper story to the clubhouse, with a veranda large enough to hold several hundred of the gentle sex.

That at least one prominent society lady is fond of racing has been demonstrated here day after day ever since the cold weather set in. Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Wilson, Jr., are most assiduous devotees of the sport. Mr. Wilson is a frail man, who at times during the summer, was very ill. His wife, formerly Miss Mason, of Boston, is his antithesis, and is a living example of the good effect of out-door sport on her sex. As cold and raw a day as was Saturday, the opening day, Mrs. Wilson was on hand. Her husband had several horses engaged that day, including Monfort, the Ornament colt which ran second to Brookdale Nymph in the Aqueduct Handicap. Monfort ran a remarkably good race, dropping far back at first, then closing up very fast through the long homestretch.

It is this feature of the unostentatious track which has commended it to horse owners and trainers. They realize that there should be little or no excuse for the defeat at Aqueduct of a horse which on paper looks best. On Monday it was this that saved Brances' backers, for the awkward gelding was all tangled up over on the far turn, and did not begin to overcome the leaders until well down the stretch. Even then he was in jeopardy, for Notter, on J. F. Donohue bore out from the rail at the same time that Delaby, on Killaloe, bore in a trifle, and it then appeared as if Brances would be shut out completely. To the relief of his backers, the game old gelding found an opening and got home first, while immediately behind him the once formidable "red and blue" of "Phil" Dwyer's Red Friar was so rapidly overhauling Brances that he might have won in a few more strides. Brances pulled up very lame, but gradually walked out of it.

It is, by the way, a source of great regret that "Phil" Dwyer's colors are so seldom seen in front nowadays. He replenishes each year with a dozen yearlings, enters them liberally, which costs him another large amount annually, and not since Major Daingerfield and the others sold by him to James B. Brady and F. C. McLewee for $50,000, has the veteran horseman had a really good year, though Knight Errant, but for unsoundness, might have developed into a fine performer over a long distance of ground. Mr. Dwyer's horses are trained by Richard Miller, a protégé for many years back of the Messrs. Dwyer, and the man who handled Africander when that high-class racer was at the height of his fame. Of course, any man who trains for Philip or Charles Dwyer, is always open to the suggestions of those experts, but of late neither uncle nor nephew pays much attention to the details of training, and so the Dwyer horses are now more than ever in the hands of their actual trainer.

Charles Dwyer is a clubhouse commissioner at intermittent periods, but unless the character of the program and the nature of the day promises a large clubhouse attendance, Dwyer does not "weigh in" with the clubhouse admission fee, which, for a "commissioner," is $20 a day. Some days there have been as many as two score commissioners at work in the clubhouse at Belmont Park and Sheephead Bay. The $20 a day includes admission to the course, $3 admission to the clubhouse, $5 additional, and $12 for "information," the tissue supplied to all layers and commissioners, containing the official list of jockeys, weights, corrections, etc. From this source alone a handsome revenue is gleaned, one of the various sources from which the tracks obtain the millions from which the state derives its five per cent., or $200,000 annually.

Those who frequent the clubhouse do not by any means confine themselves to picking a probable winner. It has become the vogue to "lay" a horse or horses in the clubhouse. The extremely shrewd division which includes Alphonse Hudson, a close friend of Messrs. Gates and Drake; Henry Dryer, Fred Johnson, Jesse Lewishohn and others will often lay a point better than the market price, or rather the price quoted by the clubhouse commissioners, which are not, you can wager, "dutch books," and in a spirit of pique the "amateurs" will lay a better price to the commissioner than he will offer them. Thus quite some betting is done that never goes out of the clubhouse into the ring, and this has given cause for more or less protest on the part of the large operators, who naturally want all the money bet to be in circulation. For several years this was the cause of strong feeling between Wheelock, Jones, Cowan and other well known layers against the associations and the abolition of fees for the privilege of bookmaking, which took place three years ago at Belmont Park, was to a certain extent the result of this feud.

However, this attitude of the layers was regarded as a good business exaction, and a recent decision of the stewards of the English Jockey Club would appear to sustain the American bookies. Of late there had grown up in the clubhouses at the various English courses a state of affairs now existing here—that is, amateurs had turned layers.

NEW STALLION AT CASTLETON STUD.

Hippodrome To Be the First Non-Winning Horse Among Keene's Sires.

Lexington, Ky., November 8.—Hippodrome, James R. Keene's three-year-old son of Commando—Dominoes, will have a chance to sire winners in the next few years at Castleton Farm. Hippodrome was a very promising yearling, and up to his going wrong as a two-year-old in his preparation for the Futurity, was considered as good a colt as any ever sent out from Castleton Farm. He will be the first non-winning stallion ever put in the stud at this famous breeding place.

J. E. Madden will have about forty two-year-olds in training next season. In the collection is a colt out of Saratoga Belle, a sister to Sallie of Navarre, the dam of Salvadore; a half-brother to Meelick, and a colt out of the famous Tarantella, the dam of ten winners. Among the fillies is a half-sister to King James and a youngster out of the Oaks winner, Floca Pomona.

It is probable that J. R. Keene's two great three-year-old fillies, Court Dress and Pope Joan, will be given another trial on the turf next season and not retired to the stud until 1909. Major Daingerfield is of the opinion that these two brilliant two-year-olds of 1906 will stand training and race again next season in high-class form.

W. O'B. Macdonough may locate his young stallion, Orsini, the sire of George C. Bennett and other good winners in Kentucky the coming season. He wants the son of the unbeaten Ormonde to have a chance to be mated to some young Hanover mares. The Ormonde and Hanover cross this year gave the turf Orby, Richard Croker's English Derby winner. Macdonough owns one Hanover mare, Sloe, the dam of Oran, which winner of the Great Trial Stakes is by Ossary, another son of Ormonde.

David Gideon's famous mare, The Butterflies, the first filly to win the Futurity, is believed to be in foal this season to Star Shoot. She has only sent one winner to the races, her stud career so far having been a whole chapter of accidents.

The best yearling in Fred Cook's stable this season, according to a report from Lee Christy to trainer W. E. Phillips, is the brown filly by Lissak, out of Anne Hastings, by Hastings.

J. E. Cushing has purchased of J. S. Barbee a half interest in the two-year-old black colt, Rastus, by Handspring, out of My Gyps, by Kyrle Daly. The colt will be raced in California the coming season.

AN OLD-TIME STAYER.

The most remarkable instance of stamina in the history of the American turf was that of John C. Stevens' Black Maria, a long lifetime ago. In October, 1832, Black Maria won a race of four-mile heats over the Union Course on Long Island, in which five heats were necessary to achieve victory. Over a heavy track this wonderful mare won the first heat, dead-headed the second, was second in the third, second in the fourth and won the fifth, running a total distance of twenty miles. Black Maria was on the turf six years; started twenty-five times and won thirteen races. Eleven of her contests were three and four-mile heats.

DENVER RACING NEXT YEAR.

G. A. Wahlgren, secretary and general manager of the Denver-Overland Racing Club, announces that there will be thirty-one days of racing at Denver next year. The minimum purse for over-night races will be $300 and to all the stakes and handicaps the added money will be proportionately increased, while the Colorado Derby, says Mr. Wahlgren, will be worth $4,000. There were plenty of horses at Denver last year, but the club expects a larger number next year and believes that the inducements offered will attract horses of considerable class.

WINNIE O'CONNOR COMING HOME.

Jockey Winnie O'Connor, who has been riding in France this season for M. Veil-Picard, will shortly sail for America, accompanied by his wife and will spend the winter in this country. O'Connor is an enthusiast for cycling and may compete in the six-day bicycle races at Madison Square Garden in New York next month. An English exchange says O'Connor has frequently, during his stay abroad, appeared as a professional on many of the cycle tracks in Europe.

OFFICIALS AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, November 8.—Among recent arrivals here are Matt J. Winn, general manager of both tracks, C. R. Ellison and H. C. Riddle. Mr. Winn has been in conference with members of both clubs and stated that officials would be announced in a day or so.

Mars Cassidy will start at both tracks, and Clarence McDowell will be presiding judge. It is understood that minor positions will be filled by local people.

JURY DISAGREES IN BETTING CASE.

Washington, D. C., November 8.—After being out all night the jury in the case of George L. Goodacre, charged with violating the anti-gambling laws of the District of Columbia in operating a hand-book, disagreed and was discharged by Justice Stafford. District Attorney Baker will have the case against Goodacre called for trial again as soon as possible.

RACING SLOW AT PIMLICO.

RAIN AND MUD LEAD TO SCRATCHING AND SMALL FIELDS.

Johnny Edwards a Promising Two-Year-Old—Graziello Defeats Paul Clifford—Lotus Eater Beaten.

Baltimore, Md., November 8.—Rain and a heavy track marred the racing at Pimlico today. Owners fought shy of the muddy going and many scratches cut down the fields. The Patapsco Hunt Purse, a two-mile race on the flat for steeplechasers, had been barred for the feature of the afternoon, but was cut down by scratches to three starters. Of these True Boy was made an odds-on favorite, with Tellfare second choice. The preferred ones had the race to themselves strictly. True Boy and Tellfare raced head and head all the way to the stretch for the last time around. Here Mr. Harrison tried to come away with Tellfare and for a moment it appeared as if he had True Boy beaten, but Noone shook his mount up and in a few strides he was up with Tellfare and passed him and then it was all over. Mr. Wright, on Best Boy, rode a hard race but was never a factor. The scratching of Billie Hibbs and Jubilee took much of the interest out of the fifth race, which fell to Goes Fast, the second choice in the betting. Goes Fast showed a great burst of speed in the stretch and ran away from Tom Shaw, the favorite.

Johnny Edwards showed conclusively that his victory of Tuesday was no fluke, when he took the first race today from such good ones as King's Plate and Dixie Himmel. The Kingston gelding showed a high order of speed and made a show of his opponents. This is a much better colt than he has been rated, and can win in higher class company.

Old Graziello showed a flash of his old-time form in the second race, coming through the stretch with an irresistible rush and winning as his rider pleased from Paul Clifford, which is just now in great form and very partial to such going as that of today.

Bob Walden started Lotus Eater back in the third race today, but the horse was soundly beaten by Lally and Ocean Spray. Evidently the heavy going does not suit this good son of Galore.

Dick Watkins won the last race of the day with Coltness, making the third consecutive victory for this colt at the meeting. Coltness was sick last spring and did not show to good advantage, but he is in rare form now and it will take a pretty good plater to beat him at his distance. Watkins will not take in the Benning meeting, but will ship direct to New Orleans.

KENTUCKY RACING COMMISSION SAFE.

It some quarters it has been asserted that one consequence of Republican success in Kentucky would be the repeal of the law creating the State Racing Commission, but there does not appear to be any substantial ground for the suggestion. A leading Kentucky breeder, who is himself a Republican, said in an interview Thursday concerning this matter: "While it is true that there was a plank in the Republican platform calling for a repeal of the law creating the State Racing Commission, there is no probability of such legislation. In the first place, I have been assured that it was not the sentiment of the party that such a plank be injected into the platform. I have been reliably informed that it was drafted by some one at Louisville, who had, it was later discovered, an axe to grind against one member of the commission. It was presented to the committee on resolutions, who are not horsemen and know nothing of the breeding and racing industry in this state, with the assurance that it was a master political stroke. It was, as we all know in this section, nothing of the sort, and the speakers for the Republican cause were forthwith advised from campaign headquarters to make no utterance against the Racing Commission during the campaign.

"The leaders of the Republican party have been made to see that the law is the best thing that could have happened for the control of racing in this state, and when the Racing Commission makes its first annual report to the Legislature next month I think that it will have the approval of the Republican as well as the Democratic members of the General Assembly. If a measure intending to wipe out this law were presented the Democrats are strong enough to kill it without Republican aid, and should it be passed and sent to the Governor, I would lay odds that he would veto it."

GATHERING FAST AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, La., November 7.—More than 200 horses are now here and the tracks in consequence have much the same appearance as though racing was in progress. The most prominent stables which have arrived are those of W. O. Joplin, with twelve horses, J. U. Strode with eight, A. B. Maginnis with eight, Hughes Brothers with sixteen, Walter Gum with three, Thomas Kiley with six, and L. T. Lee & Son with eleven. P. M. Civill and M. Goldblatt are also here with their horses.

Secretary Maginn is receiving stake entries every day and the indications are that Barney Schreiber, C. B. Ellison, Burlew & O'Neill and J. J. McCafferty will have the leading stables here this winter, and the chances are that the stake winners will mostly come from them.

FEATURES OF AQUEDUCT'S RACING.

and recently the members of Tattersalls and other influential layers protested to the turf authorities that this was not the correct thing. The consequence is that, according to the latest English papers, it has been ordered that there shall be no more "laying" by amateurs in the track club-houses. The money must be bet in "open market" according to the decision of the most eminent turf bodies in the world, and this precedent ought to be a good one to follow elsewhere.

From a friend abroad I hear that "Winnie" O'Connor will renew his engagement next year with the German turfman, Herr Weinberg, for whom Willie Shaw rode this year with great success. Shaw is back and will no doubt renew his alliance with the Farrell-Sullivan-Johnson stable, so ably trained by Frank Weir. "Johnny" Reiff will ride in Germany also, at a retainer of $25,000. Milton Henry will remain in Baron Rothschild's employment and Jay Ranch will ride for James Hennessy. Bellhouse, who is not an American, will again ride for W. K. Vanderbilt. Cormack, after several years' success in France, is leaving there for his home in Canada, where he is a neighbor of "Jack" Martin. This last-named rider has bought a lot of property at Hamilton, Ontario, of late.

NOTES OF THE TURF.

Jockey Herman Radtke is on his way to Oakland, where he will ride for J. O. and G. H. Keene this winter.

Former bookmaker Jack Sheen has displaced Jerry Owens as the official price-maker for the syndicate operating at the New Orleans merry-go-round.

H. T. Griffin will have part of his stable at New Orleans this winter in charge of trainer H. McCluskey, while J. Gleason will handle the horses at Arcadia.

Jockeys Manders and Buchanan have arrived at Oakland from Idaho, where they have been riding at the small race meetings in that state since Spokane closed.

W. O'B. Macdonough has consigned three of his broodmares at Ormondale Stud to the Fasig-Tipton sale, which takes place during the last week of the month at Lexington, Ky. They are Sloe, May W. and Plummeria, and are to be sold without any reserve.

The yearlings and older horses of the Carman stable have arrived at Oakland from New York in charge of William Kennedy. Jockey Guy Burns came along and will ride one of the seven horses eligible from the Carman stable to run in the Opening Handicap.

Jockey George Stern has renewed his contract to ride as first jockey for M. Edmond Blanc in France next year. M. Maurice Ephrussi will have second call on Stern. He has ridden upward of 140 winners this season out of about 500 mounts and is leading every other rider in France by more than sixty winners. Jockey Bellhouse is second to Stern and then come the three American riders, Cornack, Henry and O'Connor.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES.

[Communications without names and addresses of senders will not be answered or noticed; nor will any answers be sent by mail.]

J. B., Toronto. If your horse ran second you should be paid at reduced odds.

C. A. H., Henderson, Ky. Will not publish charts of races over the track inquired about. Address the Pica-yune.

V. W. R., Toronto. Odd. Juggler opened at 2 to 1 and closed at 2½ to 1, even, and 1 to 2 in the race inquired about.

H. C. C., Chicago. The evident intention was to back Billie Hibbs in the race in which he was entered and the parlay lost.

J. A. M., Ottawa, Ill. The track at Pimlico November 6 was fast for it. At best it is a slow track. No rain fell that day until after the races. The clipping from a certain newspaper purporting to be a dispatch from Pimlico track was not sent from there, but was written in Chicago.

"BIG TIM'S" MONEY NOT TAINTED.

Where did "Big Tim" Sullivan get his money? Public interest in this question was aroused when, on Sunday, in Miner's Bowery Theater, Timothy D. Sullivan said to the accompaniment of Tammany cheers that he had never taken a dollar of graft, says the New York World.

"That's right," said "Big Tim," when asked to reconcile his statement with the possession of enough wealth to enable him to drop $150,000 at the race tracks without going into bankruptcy.

"It's gospel truth," continued Sullivan, "that I've lost close to $200,000 on the ponies this season, but, just the same, you can stake your life on it that no dollar of dirty money ever touched my hands."

"Apparently you don't know that I am in receipt of an annual income of between $200,000 and $300,000. Does that surprise you?"

"How did you get it?"

"While I was in the assembly and senate and later in Washington as a congressman, I never saved a dollar," said Sullivan. "Six years ago I was $50,000 in debt. I had been playing a swift game."

"I made up my mind that it was time to quit, and I cut it all out in a single day. I passed up the Great White Way, took a room at the Occidental Hotel, on the Bowery, and I've stuck it out ever since. I haven't been on Broadway more than five times in six years."

"But, how have you made your money?"

"I'm doing quite a business in theatricals for one thing," said "Big Tim" modestly. "I've got thirty-one companies—burlesques, extravaganzas, melodramas and a couple of tragedies—on the road. They are all doing well. I own one theater and have substantial interests in five others. There are some enterprises outside theatricals which yield me fair returns."

"Big Tim" did not itemize these other enterprises, which include the Jamaica race track and Coney Island's Dreamland.

"I am going to cut out the race track game," said Sullivan, as the memory of this season's losses was revived by another question. "I'm going to turn to faro bank. It's the only game that gives a man a fair chance, provided the dealer is on the level and the box is straight."

"One of my troubles," he said, "is that I never keep books. When I get up in the morning I don't know whether $10,000 or $10 is coming to me on any transaction. That is one of the reasons, I suppose why money melts so quick with me."

"Where has it gone?"

"Oh, it's hard to tell," said Sullivan, with a careless laugh. "Some to the race tracks, some to the faro bank and some to the boys who stuck by me when I needed help."

"But," said "Big Tim," growing earnest, "I never got a dollar from the poolrooms or from disorderly houses. Sometimes I have helped a pool-room man or a handbookie who got into trouble, but my only pay was his thanks."

"I look upon a gambler at the race track as no worse or better than the gambler in Wall street. They are both in the game at different angles—that's all."

"I'd help the one as readily as I would the other, provided he was a decent fellow. But sympathy and dirty money don't go together. What I said last night at Miner's Theater was the truth—every word of it."

"Remember that I am through with the ponies and that no dirty money ever has or ever will go into my plans," said Sullivan in conclusion. "So long."

MARSH, KING EDWARD'S TRAINER.

The Royal Establishment from Which Came Two Derby Winners.

"King Edward can boast of quite a goodly number of successes on the turf this year, the most recent of these having been gained with his horse Coxcomb, which won the much-prized Welter Handicap at Doncaster from a strong field," writes Haydon Church in a letter from London under date of October 24. "The result of this race, which the king witnessed, is known to have pleased his majesty greatly, and a day or two afterward he sent for his trainer, Richard Marsh, and congratulated him warmly on the satisfactory showing made by the royal stables."

"It is no use giving you any more pins," said the king, and, placing a small package in the trainer's hand, he added, "therefore I ask you to accept this as a little souvenir for your wife."

"The 'little souvenir' was a handsome enameled brooch, studded with diamonds, and representing a race horse at full gallop with a jockey wearing the royal colors. The incident illustrated both the good nature of the king and his high appreciation of Marsh's services."

"Not only is Marsh the trainer of the king's horses, but since the silken jacket of purple and gold flashed first past the post in all the most important races of the first year of this century, he has been known in England as the 'king of horse trainers.' For purple and gold are the royal racing colors, and Diamond Jubilee, the greatest winner among race horses in any one year, was trained for King Edward VII. by Marsh."

"Dick" Marsh, the great trainer is familiarly called. He owns the most palatial training establishment in the world. Over it—Egerton House, Newmarket—blaze the royal arms. There are gathered a hundred blue-blooded race horses owned by the king, and some half dozen of the wealthiest noblemen and gentlemen on the British turf."

"Marsh has been a trainer for twenty years. Before that he was a steeplechase jockey and before that again a jockey on the flat. Without question he is a genius in his profession. Carlyle says: 'Genius is an infinite capacity for taking pains.' It has been Marsh's capacity that has won for him his present enviable position in the horse world."

"Since he has been hall-marked by the appointment as the royal trainer, gold has streamed in Marsh's direction. Horses he has trained have won races valued at a total of over $2,500,000. The average winnings at Egerton House have been $125,000 per year. These stakes have just about paid the owners their expenses, for Marsh's annual income from his training establishment alone is $100,000 a year, and it is safe to say that his percentage of winnings and gifts from winning owners foot up to a grand total of between $125,000 and $150,000. He can properly claim the position of being the highest-priced trainer in the world. Being a shrewd man, he values his own opinion and backs it, so that with his winnings in a good year his annual receipts will about equal a quarter of a million dollars."

"But Egerton House is an expensive establishment. There is a small army of employees, from stable boys to typewriters in the office. The training quarters make up a small village, with its own shops and school and chapel, which has a surplined choir of stable lads. There are long lines of model stables and inclosures where are quartered troops of thoroughbreds, from unraced two-year-olds to aged veterans. And there is also a model farm, with many prize cattle, and a stud farm."

"The king's trainer looks the typical British gentleman farmer. He is a big, robust man of fifty-five, weighing close on 200 pounds, clean shaven and always faultlessly dressed. He has a cheery manner, a hearty hand-grasp and is one of the most popular men on the British turf. He is treated as a friend rather than as an employe by the king and the many other noble and wealthy patrons of racing. His is a familiar figure at the big races and he always has a place in the royal inclosure and at the royal luncheon table."

"Marsh has a master mind for horses. This is proved by the fact that he is the most successful race horse trainer of the day. He is a good man of business, too, which is shown by the systematic and orderly way in which his princely establishment is conducted."

"The story of his career, never yet fully written, is most interesting."

"Ever so many years ago the coast town of Margate held open pony races on the seashore. Margate, even in those days, was the Atlantic City of England. One day a number of grammar school boys from neighboring Folkestone went to see the races. An owner, who at the last minute was short a jockey, asked the knot of boys if any of them could ride. A sturdy little chap of thirteen advanced and said he could. The owner quickly gave him a leg up and that boy and pony won the race. It was Dick Marsh's first mount in a race. There was much bargaining to secure the boy as jockey for subsequent races. Marsh rode in five that afternoon and won all of them. He was decidedly the 'infant prodigy.' For his share of the sport he won a gold watch. Urged on by his experience and the flattery of admirers, he then and there decided to be a jockey. His father opposed him, but finally relented on the understanding that Dick would first graduate from the grammar school in Folkestone. He was born on December 31, 1851, at Smeeth in the 'Garden county' of England, Kent. Smeeth is a little hamlet not far from Canterbury. His father was a farmer and hop-grower and owned quite a few horses which the boy learned to ride bare-backed."

"Racing in those days was somewhat different to what it is now, but Dick Marsh had no trouble in becoming a jockey. His first public mount as a professional was on a horse named Manrico at Dover. The horse won in a canter by six lengths. Luckily for Marsh, the late Captain Macell was present and saw the race. Captain Macell was, in his time, one of the most prominent racing men in England. He took a fancy to Marsh and put him in his own stable. The young jockey rode in all the big races in England, and with much success. He kept adding on weight, however, and was then advised by the late Duke of Hamilton to go into the business of a trainer."

"So Marsh rented Lordship Farm, near Newmarket, turned it into training quarters and became a public trainer. He secured the stables of the Duke of Hamilton, Lord Dudley, Lord Hartington, Captain D'Orsay and the brothers Baltazzi."

"Classical and important races fell one after another to Marsh's horses, and he found, toward the end of the eighties, that Lordship Farm was not big enough. So with the help and advice of his patrons, Egerton House was projected. Marsh was looking forward when he planned, and the consequence was the erection of the most magnificent training stable in the world. His old patrons moved to the new establishment with him, and there soon followed the horses of Lords William and Marcus Beresford, the Duke of Marlborough, the Earl of Warwick, Lord Wolverton, Lord Charles Montague, uncle of the Duke of Manchester, and Messrs. R. G. Heaton and J. W. Larnach."

"Marsh soon equaled the records of the other great training stables, Manton and Beckhampton, and so on. Very shortly he had passed them and was in the front flight. The horses of the king, then Prince of Wales, had not been doing very well, and Lord Marcus Beresford was appointed master of the Royal Racing Stud. He promptly turned all the royal horses, from two-year-olds to aged, over to the care of Marsh, and up went the royal arms over Egerton House."

"This, of course, was a most valuable asset. But, even knowing its full value, Marsh showed himself fearlessly independent. The king had a large string in training and he was somewhat bothered financially. At one time the king owed his trainer $50,000. Marsh, in those days, charged owners all expenses and fees with a percentage of winnings. He plainly told the king that he wanted his money, for he could not afford to train on credit when he had scores of cash-paying owners wanting stable room. The king admired Marsh for his independence and thereafter became his staunch friend. The late Baron de Hirsch, it is understood, paid Marsh's bill in full, and the king himself afterward paid regularly."

"That Marsh has a peculiar aptitude for pleasing his patrons is shown by a little trick he turned last summer. The king had bred a slashing filly at Sandringham; she was the favorite of the royal princesses and was christened by Princess Victoria after herself. Victoria was entered in an important stake at Sandown on May 31. When Marsh found out that was also to be the wedding day of the queen of Spain, he devoted the most particular pains to getting the filly Victoria into shape. She won the race in a canter, the first race of the season for the king, and at the very hour that his niece became Queen Victoria of Spain. The victory, being such a happy augury, pleased the royal family immensely, and also the public."

"Horses trained by Marsh have time and time again captured practically all the important races in different seasons, but it was not until 1896 that he won the blue ribbon of the turf, the Derby. This was also the first Derby that the King won and so it was doubly a triumph. Marsh had first scored that year for the king with the filly Thais in the One Thousand Guineas. Persimmon, his candidate for the Derby, had been previously beaten by Leopold de Rothschild's St. Frusquin and there was the greatest rivalry between the two. St. Frusquin was favorite and Persimmon second in favor. The king's horse was the bigger and Marsh declared his longer stride in the long race would mean his victory. He was right, for, though St. Frusquin led all the way to the stretch, Persimmon's longer stride wore him down and in a tremendous finish the king's horse won by a short neck. The scene that ensued was one of unparalleled excitement. The king himself led the winner through the cheering crowds to the paddock. Persimmon later won the St. Leger and the Gold Cup at Ascot, among the big events, for his royal owner."
